Alsop attended Yale University and received her Master's Degree from the Juilliard School; in 1989 she won the coveted Koussevitzky Conducting Prize at the Tanglewood Music Center and was a prizewinner at the Leopold Stokowski International Conducting Competition in New York; she is heard regularly on National Public Radio. www.marinalsop.com

GUSTAV MEIER, a member of the Distinguished Visiting Faculty in Graduate Conducting at The Peabody Institute of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore. He received his diploma from the Zurich Conservatory in Switzerland and undertook additional studies at Academia Chigiana Siena. Meier serves as Music Director for the Greater Lansing Symphony Orchestra in Michigan and Bridgeport Symphony Orchestra in Connecticut. He has regular appearances as guest conductor in Europe, South and Central America, China, Canada, and throughout the United States. Meier was former director of the Conductors Seminar at Tanglewood from 1980-1996, and former faculty at Yale School of Music, Eastman School of Music, and University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. His awards include the Luise Vorgerian Teaching Award from Harvard University, the 1996 Ditson Prize for a commitment to consistently perform works of American composers, and the Max Rudolf

Award in 1999 from the Conductors Guild. He teaches regular master courses in such cities as Kiev, Beijing, Mexico City, and Adelaide.

JENNIFER HIGDON is one of America's most frequently performed composers. She is hailed by the Washington Post as "a savvy, sensitive composer with a keen ear, an innate sense of form and a generous dash of pure esprit." Higdon's list of commissioners is extensive and include; The Philadelphia Orchestra, The Chicago Symphony, The Atlanta Symphony, The National Symphony, The Minnesota Orchestra, The Pittsburgh Symphony, The Indianapolis Symphony, The Dallas Symphony, and The Oregon Symphony. Most recently, Higdon wrote a violin concerto for Hilary Hahn which was commissioned by the Indianapolis Symphony, Toronto Symphony, the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, and the Curtis Institute Symphony Orchestra. She has received awards from the Guggenheim Foundation, the American Academy of Arts &

Letters (two awards), the Pew Fellowship in the Arts, Meet-the-Composer, the National Endowment for the Arts, and ASCAP. Her works have been recorded on over two dozen CDs. In 2004 the Atlanta Symphony released the Grammy-winning, Higdon: "Concerto for Orchestra/City Scape". 2006 saw the release of a compact disc of Higdon's chamber music on Naxos, as well as a Grammy-winning recording with eighth blackbird, and in 2009 her Percussion Concerto earned a Grammy nomination for best classical composition. Higdon currently holds the Milton L. Rock Chair in Composition Studies at The Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The goal of the Conductors Guild Training Workshops is to provide the maximum amount of specific and insightful guidance on both technical and musical matters to each attendee in a constructive, encouraging, and non-competitive environment.

This workshop is distinguished by bringing early-career conductors face to face with early-career composers on the subject of interpreting their works. The goal of this professional training program is to give promising young conductors the skills they need to become partners in creating, and leaders in interpreting, promoting, and performing new works for orchestra. Participating conductors team up with three selected composers to work on subjects including modern score analysis, coaching, practical guides for the rehearsal and the interpretation and performance of contemporary works. The program culminates with a concert called In the Works featuring three short works by workshop composers, each performed multiple times, each time by a different conductor.

The workshop is divided into two tiers:

- Participant: seven core conductors for whom extensive podium time and video documentation will be provided
- Auditor: thirteen observing attendees for whom no podium time will be granted

This workshop is sponsored by the Conductors Guild and is opened to members of the Conductors Guild only. However, if you are not currently a member of the Conductors Guild, you have the option of joining by including a separate membership application with your workshop application. You may also apply online. The Conductors Guild does not accept workshop applications from non-members.

2010 BRUNO WALTER CONDUCTING SCHOLARSHIPS

The Cabrillo Festival's Bruno Walter Conducting Scholarships will cover each Participant's tuition and provide a $600 scholarship to help offset out-of-pocket expenses.

Bruno Walter (1876-1962) was one of the twentieth century's greatest conductors, equally at home conducting an opera or symphonic orchestra. He was also a gifted pianist, a recording artist and an author. Since his death, Walter's estate has been dedicated to assisting emerging conductors in their career development and providing the mentoring and hands-on learning opportunities required to advance them in their field. In 2010 the Bruno Walter Memorial Foundation granted the Cabrillo Festival, under Maestra Marin Alsop, funds to make this workshop tuition-free and thereby diminish barriers that might stand in the way of the most promising young conductors. These scholarships will serve as a continuing legacy to Maestro Walter, reminding musicians and the public of his invaluable contributions to opera, symphonic music, and the training of young conductors, during his lifetime and long after.

THELMA A. ROBINSON SCHOLARSHIP/AWARD

Participants in this workshop will be eligible for the 2011 Thelma A. Robinson Scholarship/Award of the National Federation of Music Clubs. This $1,000 prize is given biennially to a U.S. Citizen who has participated in at least one Conductors Guild Conductor Training Workshop and who has not reached his/her 35th birthday by March 1st of the season of participation. The faculty at each workshop will nominate one eligible Participant who demonstrates accomplishment, musicality, and promise in the field of conducting. The present skill level of the candidate and his/her degree of improvement within the workshop itself will be considered. The candidate from each workshop will be asked to submit his/her video from that particular workshop to the Conductors Guild office for subsequent evaluation by the Thelma A. Robinson Scholarship/ Award selection committee.

DEADLINE/APPLICATION

Application Deadline: Thursday, April 8, 2010. The completed application form, DVD, and application fee of $50 should be mailed to:

Conductors Guild
ATTN: Cabrillo Workshop
5300 Glenside Drive, Suite 2207
